TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—Arizona was organized as a territory in 1863 and was admitted to the Union as the forty-eighth state in February, 1912. According to the Fourteenth Census, taken as of January 1, 1920, its population is 334,162, which represents an increase of 129,808, or 63.5 per cent, over the population in 1910. During the same period the rate of increase for the United States was 14.9 per cent.

The following summary shows the population of Arizona from 1870 to 1920, inclusive, together with the number and per cent of increase for each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole. The population in 1860 of Arizona County, N. Mex., comprising the area now constituting the state of Arizona and a small part of Nevada, was 6,482.

Counties.—Arizona has 14 counties. (See Table 1.) One new county, Greenlee, was organized from part of Graham in 1911. It has been necessary, therefore, in preparing the maps showing rates of increase in total and rural population, to combine these two counties.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 113,810 square miles. The average number of inhabitants to the square mile in 1920 is 2.9 (see Table 1), as against 1.8 in 1910 and 1.1 in 1900.

Minor civil divisions.—The political units into which the counties are divided are collectively termed "minor civil divisions." The counties of Arizona are made up of 427 primary divisions, comprising 355 election precincts, 24 school districts, 40 unorganized townships, 1 unincorporated city, 6 unincorporated towns, and 1 unincorporated village. There are also 31 secondary divisions, comprising 10 cities, 20 towns, and 1 unincorporated town. In a number of cases a city or other incorporated place comprises an entire precinct or two or more precincts or parts of two or more precincts. Eleven Indian reservations and parts of three others are located within the state. These, although independent of the county organizations, are shown in the table as parts of the counties in which they are wholly or partially located. The population not included in any of the specified

Cities.—Arizona has 10 incorporated cities, of which Phoenix, with a population of 29,053, is the largest. (See Tables 3 and 4.)

The following summary shows, for each of the principal cities and towns in the state, the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the number and per cent of increase during the preceding decade:

Urban and rural population.—The Census Bureau defines urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside such incorporated places.

The following summary presents, for the last three censuses, figures showing the urban and rural population of the state distributed among places grouped according to specified limits of population. The classification for each census is based upon the population of the various places as shown by the returns of that census. Consequently the territory comprised within any one class of cities or that designated as urban or as rural does not remain fixed, because any given place may, through the growth or the decline of its population, pass from one class to another at successive censuses. The proportion of the population of Arizona living in places of 2,500 or more increased from 15.9 per cent in 1900 to 31 per cent in 1910 and to 35.2 per cent in 1920.

TABLE 1.—AREA AND POPULATION OF COUNTIES: 1870 TO 1920.

[In computing the percentage of increase for the period 1890-1900 the population of Indian reservations in 1900 has been deducted from the total population of the county in order to make that total comparable with the total for 1890, which does not include the population of Indian reservations. The population thus deducted in the several counties was as follows: Apache, 5,341; Gila, 70; Maricopa, 2,451; Pima, 1,543; Pinal, 2,954; Yuma, 558.]
